

'STATE FINALS HERE WE COME' > Year 8+9 Girls Knockout Netball

Our Gleeson Year 8/9 Knockout Netball Team continued their fine form in the second round of the competition against Henley and Blackwood High Schools last Friday. It was a clash of the Specialist Netball Programs with each school affiliated with Netball SA, it was bound to be an exciting day of competition!

The first match saw Gleeson play Blackwood HS. Our girls looked slick from the start, the warm up was spot on and their voices were up. This set the pace heading into the first quarter where we got off to a flying start, outshooting Blackwood 12-4. The last three quarters were similar, with the girls executing the game plan brilliantly and playing out the match with lots of run. Final score 43-24.

After a short break, we were set to take on Henley HS, traditionally one of our toughest opponents in the KO Statewide Netball Competition. Henley tend to have not only skilled players, but they grow them tall! Nonetheless, the GC girls executed another perfect warm up, voices loud and looking like a well-oiled machine. Once again the girls got off to a great start outscoring Henley 11-7 in the first quarter. A brain fade and some silly errors in the second quarter allowed Henley to close the gap, but the girls soon found their rhythm again, holding off the Henley attack to finish the half level at 19-19. Turning into a nail biter of a game, the lead was never really certain in the third quarter. Every time GC got up by a few goals, Henley clawed it back. Our girls would cause some wonderful turnovers, but with fatigue starting to set in, could not always capitalise and the ball would head back down the other end. To their

"GREASE IS THE WORD!"

What great energy and excitement there has been this week around the College with the arrival of the musical, Grease. Having visited the rehearsals a few times over the course of this year, then seeing the hard work and commitment come to fruition in a spectacular show, is just wonderful. The colour, the costumes, the singing, the TALENT are all just extraordinary.

Upon reflection, I think the most wonderful aspect of the production is the capacity it has to involve such a broad spectrum of our student community. Students who may not excel academically or in sport or other areas of school life, just shine with the opportunity that the musical offers. With heartfelt thanks we acknowledge the tremendous efforts of the staff team (Carly Meakin, Dianne Deptula, Sally Parsons, and Andrew Crosby for playing with the band) who bring it all together. I do hope you had a chance to see it! Congratulations to all involved.

Wednesday saw our Year 7 2018 cohort join our community (their community) for the day as part of the transition experiences, designed to help students make connections with each other and to create opportunities for the year level to familiarise themselves with Gleeson College. An example of the community they are joining presented itself unexpectedly, through the care that Caleb North (one of our current Year 11 students) demonstrated when he walked his Year 6 brother to the Learning Centre. It was beautiful, and Caleb's own concern for his brother making a big jump to secondary school showed great service to others, love, and leadership - qualities that Archbishop Gleeson, and Jesus too embodied.

The Year 6 students were of course both excited and anxious, though any fears were soon allayed with activities and information from key staff members, watching the Grease performance, and to conclude the day, students were introduced to their House Team. It was a treat to spend the day with this fine group of young people, and their openness to the opportunities and new experiences that secondary school offers is inspiring. We are all very much looking forward to the richness that next year's Year 7s will bring to our community. Special thanks to Mrs Amanda Price for the impeccable organisation and planning, and to all the House Leaders, and Mr Shannon Bertram.

I am continually in awe of the commitment staff make, not only to their students' learning, but to their own professional learning, which of course strengthens the impact in the classroom. Staff are always on the lookout for growth opportunities, in their learning area as well as in other areas such as wellness and adolescent development. Some of the events that staff have attended recently include a conference around Catholic identity led by professors from Belgium, SACE planning and moderation, photography (focusing on Food & Hospitality), NAPLAN training and e-learning. Our Professional Learning Teams (PLT) continue to work towards improving our skills and understanding around best learning and teaching practices, all aimed at preparing our students for success at school, and beyond.

We continue to hold high our expectations of our students, and seek your support as parents, in partnership with us to help grow young women and men ready for life's journey beyond school. Uniform, appearance, interactions with peers as well as staff, application to studies, and participation in school life, are all expressions of pride in their membership of Gleeson College.

Wishing you a blessed week ahead.

SUBJECT INFORMATION EVENING + SATAC SESSION > Exploring Pathways

Gleeson families took advantage of the information on offer at our annual Subject Information & SATAC Evening held in the DRMC last week.

Faculty coordinators and teaching staff set up subject information booths where students and their families were able to seek more information about pre-requisites, subject pathways and the types of assessment tasks relevant to each course. As well as teaching staff, representatives from our major universities and TAFESA were able to answer questions relating to all the courses they offer.

Information sessions on the South Australian Certificate of Education (SACE) were provided to students and families of Year 10 and 11 students. The sessions explained what the requirements are for achieving a SACE certificate, and how this is used to determine an Australian Tertiary Admissions Rank, commonly known as an ATAR. If students want to pursue a tertiary qualification through obtaining an ATAR, copies of the 'SATAC Guide to Undergraduate Courses' publication were made available for students to find information on each university course and the current ATAR scores for entry into each course.

Information on the application process through SATAC for tertiary courses was also presented on the night. This information session was relevant for Year 12 students who are thinking about applying for courses through TAFESA and the six universities SATAC represents. Registration is now open online through the SATAC website for students to enter up to six preferences. Students have until the 29 September to enter their preferences and pay the application fee.

Students in Year 10 and 11 are selecting their subject preferences for 2018 next week. As a result, it will be a STUDENT FREE DAY for Year 11 students on Monday 14 August and a STUDENT FREE DAY for Year 10 students on Tuesday 15 August.

Subject selections are continuing next week when Year 8 and 9 students will attend an information session on selecting subjects through Edval online.

Students' individual subject selection code letters will be provided to students at this session.

If your child requires further information on the requirements for future careers including VET pathways, they are able to make an appointment with Ms Sue Smith (SACE Coordinator), Ms Russo (VET Coordinator), House Coordinators and school counsellors.

Assistant Principal
(Administration/SACE)

YEAR 10 FOOD + HOSPITALITY > Yes Chef! Pressure Challenge

The Year 10 Food & Hospitality Creative Class felt the pressure in the kitchen this morning! For this challenge, students were not given a recipe, and instead only had access to various YouTube clips. They had to watch the YouTube clips before their practical to create their own recipe for Chicken Nuggets, Chips and Slaw.

In addition to learning about recipe organisation and planning, students were also practicing rustic style plate presentation and cooking recipes in healthier ways. For example, the Rainbow Slaw used a Greek yogurt dressing instead of mayonnaise, and the chips and nuggets were baked, not fried.

The success of their planning and recipe really determined the outcome on the day. All students were very successful as you can see by the photos. Well done to all students! Next, we will be looking at Cultural Cooking.

credit, the girls found the form we know they are capable of in the fourth quarter and blitzed it. The fourth quarter scores GC 12 - Henley 2, finishing the game with an overall win GC 43 to Henley 34 and securing a place at the 2017 State Finals to be held at Priceline Stadium on Tuesday in Week 6.

A fantastic performance by all girls and in particular the girls who cheered from the bench. Honestly it was the best, and most enthusiastic, support I have ever seen and heard!

A special thank you also to Gleeson Specialist Netball Program Head Coach, Mr Darren Saul, whose feedback and ability to read the game is invaluable.

YEAR 8+9 BOYS KNOCKOUT SOCCER > Gallant Effort in Defeat

After many great performances and results on Saturday morning by our Year 8 and 9 Boys Soccer Teams, it was time to shine in front of a home crowd in Round 1 of the Statewide Competition.

We were faced with a tough opening game against a very strong Roma Mitchell Secondary College line up. The game started off with an extremely high intensity, as both teams were capable of playing a good brand of football. Early in the first half, Zach Wallace (9 MMBON) took his opportunity as Gleeson went 1-0 up. Both teams were creating great opportunities to score and it wasn't too long before Roma Mitchell found the equalizer (1-1).

The half-time break allowed the boys to regain some energy and a few substitutions were made. Second half was underway and the game started to get physical. Roma Mitchell took the lead and not long after added another making it 3-1. Gleeson showed great character, never giving up as we tried to find the couple of goals we very much needed. Time flew past and before we knew it, the final whistle was blown. Not the result we were looking for, however the hard work of all our Year 8 and 9 footballers has not gone un-noticed this year. We now look forward to our 2018 campaign!

The secrets to communicating effectively with teenage boys

by Michael Grose

Communicating with adolescent boys can often consist of a series of questions (asked by parents) followed by monosyllabic answers (from your son). This can then deteriorate into grunts at certain ages or when your questions cut too close to the bone. For boys, mumbling or grunting monosyllabic answers is great way to keep parents out of their lives.

However, it's important to continue to connect with your son, so here are some practical ideas to help you stay in the game with your teenage boy:

1. Don't shut them down

Boys often learn from a young age to keep their problems in. If a boy comes to his parents and says he has a big test tomorrow and he is really nervous it is easy to shut him down with remarks about his lack of study and messy bedroom. If he receives this type of response when he tentatively presents issues, then he will learn to shut down and keep his problems to himself in the future. It is really important for parents to read the subtext of a boy's conversations and requests. They frequently don't know how to say what is on their mind or how they are feeling. They can be very clumsy. Realise that your son may have something bigger on his mind than the presenting issue or question.

2. Respect their space

Boys tend to be cave dwellers when things go wrong for them. A bad day at school may be followed by an angry outburst on arrival home, particularly if he is asked that time-honoured question: "How was your day?"

"&^$%%!!" may well be the response as he slams his bedroom door behind him. He has just entered his cave where he will take his time to settle his thoughts and generally turn within to draw on his internal resources. Resist the temptation to knock on his door and lovingly say, "Darling, is everything alright? Would you like to talk about it?" You are only inviting more rejection. The best solution is to wait until he comes out of his cave before you talk. Generally, he will come out when he has made some sense of what has happened to him and is ready to engage. This is the time to talk.

3. Get moving together

One way to get boys talking is to get them moving. Go for a walk together, wash the dishes together or do some other job and you will find their tongues loosen up. The pressure to speak is removed by activity. More than this, males are activity based. Just as activity and play is the language of fatherhood, activity is the mode to get many boys to open up and talk.

4. Ask what they think to find out how they feel

The way to a boy's heart is through his mind! If you want to find out how a boy is feeling, ask him what he is thinking. For instance, if he experiences rejection at school and he is obviously unhappy, ask him what he thinks about the situation rather than how he feels. He will actually tell you how he feels in the process. It is important that parents understand this and put this knowledge to good use if they want an entry point into their son's emotional life.

5. Keep the banter up

Esteemed educator Dr Tim Hawkes, author of Ten conversations you must have with your son, maintains that banter and small talk are essential elements in conversations with boys. Fun, trivia and jest are the foundations for more serious, significant conversations that a parent will have with their sons. If you are always serious – particularly a father – then a primary or secondary school-aged boy is less likely to listen to you than if you have the balance right between silly and significant.

6. Reinforce more than nag

Your effectiveness as a communicator to boys will be enhanced if you get the (positive) reinforcement to (negative) nagging ratio right. Many teenage boys benefit from being reminded about doing the right thing by others, being smart and acting confidently, but that doesn't mean that you should nag them all the time. They'll switch off to your message in a heartbeat. They're more likely to listen if you regularly point out their positives ("I love the way you..."), bite your tongue more than you speak (when you want to tell them how to behave), and choose your timing and words carefully when you have something important to say to them.

Despite your best communication techniques there will be times when feelings aren't shared, information is withheld and secrets are kept. As frustrating as this is for parents, it's a young man's prerogative to keep things close to his chest. When your son really clams up it's best to be open in your communication style and be on hand for when he eventually wants to talk. Parental availability is an underestimated parenting strategy.
