GLEESON OLD SCHOLAR JAMES BROWN TAKING DESIGN WORLD BY STORM!

Gleeson College Old Scholar and Creative Director of his own design company 'Mash', James Brown (1995) is taking the design world by storm with his unique, 'outside the box' artistic flair.

James, 33, is the latest designer to be inducted by the revered Alliance Graphique Internationale - the Swiss-based, invitation-only 'club' of the best designers in the world. With only 420 members from 36 countries, the club includes design superstars such as New York-based designer and typographer Stefan Sagmeister, who is the man behind album covers for The Rolling Stones, David Byrne and the late Lou Reed. James is only one of eight Australians ever to be inducted into the club.

In a recent article in The Advertiser's 'The Adelaide Magazine', James spoke from the heart about his passion for drawing, art and design, which he discovered at a very young age. He said at school he was far more interested in doodling than completing maths or spelling! His Gleeson College Year 10 teacher and mentor, Mr Anthony Marzullo, received a mention as he explained how his parents were asked to come in to 'have a chat' about their son's behaviour and future.

"I was a bit of a punk," James recalls. "I was on the verge of going off the rails. He (Mr Marzullo) said: 'Look, James knows what he wants to do - he wants to do art and design. He's probably going to get bored or in trouble if he stays at school.'" As the article then states....'the rest is history'.

At 15 he was the youngest ever student to be accepted to study Art and Design at Tea Tree Gully TAFE, and three years later, after a brief stint working in the UK, he returned to Adelaide to study Visual Communication at the University of SA. James said he never finished the degree though, much to the annoyance of his Mum, and went on to set up Adelaide 'artvertising' agency MASH in 2001. James and business partner Dom Roberts experienced success almost immediately, with their 'tongue-in-cheek' approach to art and design, and the awards and accolades started rocketing their way.

James also makes music and enjoys being a part of Adelaide Folk outfit 'Dr Piffle and the Burlap Band' and is one of five members of event and pop-up gurus 'The Happy Motel'. Both his design work and his love of music is seeing him globetrotting all over the world. He toured the US with Dr Piffle and the Burlap Band's for their Burning Man Tour last year and spent time in Timor setting up the country's first ever music and art festival earlier this year. James also spent a couple of months out in the Kimberley bush with Indigenous friend Carrol Karpany, the talented musician from iconic Aboriginal rock band 'Us Mob', assisting to monitor the behaviour of humpback whales.

With a resume that includes the interior design for Bali's most popular new bar and restaurant Motel Mexicola, Bondi's Beachfront bar and eatery The Bucket List and branding for Adelaide Festival and Barrio, James has made quite a name for himself in the creative design industry. We congratulate him on his outstanding achievements and wish him all the best on his many upcoming ventures, which include the re-invention of Melbourne's Comme club as a restaurant and supper club, and also sees him teaming up with award-winning winemakers and mixologists for Adelaide Festival's 2014 'Lola's Pergola' giant backyard dinner party to be held on a mocked-up suburban block.

It is also wonderful to hear that James is also working on a community project with a permaculture friend, Karlien Van Rooyen, called 'The Jolly Harvest Project'. This will see cyclists on specially equipped bicycles harvest excess fruit from Adelaide suburbs, with the spoils divided equally between the tree owner, volunteers, homeless shelters and markets for sale. All proceeds will be reinvested to community projects. For more information on The Jolly Harvest Project, head to www.jollyharvestproject.com, or to check out James' fantastic portfolio, visit www.mashdesign.com.au/

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS 2013

In the 25th year of the College's history we have continued our commitment to high expectations of all members of our community. Archbishop James Gleeson, our Patron, called us to be of service to others and we maintain our aspirations to live out the key values and indicators of the Gleeson 10.

This year our staff has continued to have a clear and dedicated focus on improving student outcomes through their Professional Learning Teams and the Moderation Day analysis of assessment data. The engagement of staff in these Professional Learning processes has brought about a greater evidence base upon which to improve student academic outcomes. It has also been designed to improve the quality teaching at the College through teachers sharing their best practice and learning from one another.

2013 has seen further development of the spiritual and religious aspects of Gleeson College. This year we have continued our school based Sacramental Program, Class Masses, Community Service and Retreats. The College has also continued to strengthen the links with the St David's Parish and we have been fortunate to have Fr George, Fr James and Monsignor John Swann to celebrate whole school, staff and class Masses with us. Next year Fr George will be working in a Sydney Parish and on behalf of the Gleeson College community I would like to thank him for his six years of wonderful support for the College. May God continue to bless you and keep you well Father George.

Performing Arts at Gleeson College has enjoyed great success and has added much to school spirit this year through the wonderful production of the 'Gleeson Gatsby' Cabaret and Arts Evening. Congratulations to all of the staff and students involved in Arts events throughout the year and I know that all are looking forward to the big Musical Production in 2014.

Our Curriculum Extension Activities have involved the students in a number of events in 2013. In particular, we have fared extremely well again in HPV (Pedal Prix) and the State Knockout Soccer, Basketball, Netball Competitions and won some State Titles. I thank all the students, staff and parents who have participated in Tennis, Cricket, Badminton, Football, Hockey and many other sporting pursuits throughout the year.

In 2013, our Social Justice Community Support groups were very active. The groups held a Winter SleepOut, organised Relay for Life fundraisers and collected Christmas Hampers for St Vincent de Paul Society. In addition, our community has donated hundreds of soup cans for Fred's Van. Gleeson College also raised over $20,000 for charities through the various Gleeson Day social action events. Through these social justice actions we continue to carry out Archbishop Gleeson's vision by working together in support of the poor in our local and global community.

Thank you to members of the Gleeson College Board for all the work they have done to support our College in 2013. I would also like to pay tribute to John Garvey, our Board Chairperson. His leadership has been much appreciated by all Board Members this year.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the Parents & Friends Committee of Gleeson College, especially to those retiring this year after many years of selfless giving of their time. The P&F support numerous College functions with their welcoming hospitality and I thank Mr Tim James for his leadership over the last three years.

I would like to thank the members of the Leadership Team for their committed and highly professional work throughout 2013. My sincere thanks to the House Coordinators, Key Learning Area Coordinators and all the fantastic and hard-working Teaching and ESO staff for their dedication, professionalism and untiring work for our students and families.

To our staff who have left us or will be leaving us at the end of this year, we send our best wishes for their future pathways and professional journeys. The staff include: Mrs Jill Conole, Mr Heath Younie, Ms Kathleen Meyers, Ms Jessica Gillard, Ms Kimberly Di Benedetto, Ms Karoline Tomczyk, Ms Angelica Barrientos, Mr Daniel Coscia, Mr Yanni Papadopoulos. I thank all of them for their dedicated work and their commitment to the College. We also wish Mrs Satoko Tomimori & Mrs Nancy Mastrogiamomo all the best for their maternity leave in 2014.

Thank you to our parents and families for your continuing educational partnership with Gleeson College. I fully appreciate the sacrifices you make to give your children a quality Catholic Education and I thank you for the many ways you support the staff and the community of Gleeson College.

To the students of Gleeson College, I say congratulations for all that you have achieved this year in every aspect of your education and thank you for everything you have done to be an active and positive participant in our College community in 2013.

On a personal note, I would like to thank the past and present students, staff and families for the wonderful 10 years I have enjoyed at Gleeson College. I have been extremely blessed to work as a Principal in a very caring, supportive, innovative and high performing College. I have also had the good fortune to work with the Principals and Leadership Teams of Pedare College and GGHS. Students on this unique Campus are provided with so many benefits! It is with a great deal of sadness that I say farewell to the College community but I will also smile with immense pride for all that we have been able to achieve together over the last 10 years. Gleeson College and its great community will always hold a very special place in my heart.

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS 2013

For the future I pray that Gleeson College will continue to fulfil its mission as a place of quality learning for the contemporary world. I pray also that it will continue to be a community which promotes the Catholic teachings and the life Jesus called us to follow.

During the Advent Season of the Church, let us continue to be the message of Jesus the true meaning of Christmas and be people of hope, peace, joy and love to one another.

In conclusion, I would like to wish all members of the Gleeson College community and their families a Happy and Holy Christmas and every Blessing for the remainder 2013. May God keep us all in the palm of his hand throughout our future lives.

2013 YEAR 12 GRADUATION CELEBRATION: 'Graduation Speech'

This occasion being the last chance for myself and Ms Sala to address the class of 2013 is an extremely proud and a sad moment that throws up many mixed emotions of the time we have spent together as a Year 12 group this year and as a cohort over the entire educational journey.

The year was 1995, and much would happen on the world stage characterised by life-affirming events such as an end to The Cold War. A United Nations coalition force led by the US was sent to the Persian Gulf, and aerial bombing of Iraq began. On a much brighter note Dolly the sheep is genetically cloned. The GPS or Global Positioning System becomes fully operational. Genetically engineered crops are developed for commercial use. The Intel Computer Company develops it's highly successfully the Pentium processor. The Java programming language is created and Microsoft releases Windows 95.

Unfortunately in the streets of Los Angeles, riots occur after the police brutality case involving Rodney King. Great Britain hands sovereignty of Hong Kong to China. East Timor breaks away from Indonesian control and US President Bill Clinton at the time is embroiled in the Lewinsky scandal. Teen soapie Beverly Hills 90210 has its long run and Baywatch becomes the most watched show in history, I'm sure the Hoff and Pamela Anderson had something to do about that! MTV the reality television makes its formal debut and the great Nelson Mandela is elected president of South Africa whilst Germany becomes reunified and the Soviet Union is dissolved. On the local front John Howard takes over as leader of the opposition party the Australian Liberal Party, Telecom changes its domestic trading name to Telstra and a decision is made to privatize QANTAS. On the sporting scene Deriemus wins the 1995 Melbourne Cup, the Carlton FC wins the 99th VFL/AFL grand final and the Port Adelaide Magpies continue their winning ways by taking out the 1995 SANFL premiership and sadly the Last Australian GP is run in the streets of Adelaide before heading to Melbourne.

Year 12's there were some surprising and visionary developments on the world stage that took place during 1995, and this year is known as the Year of the Pig in the Chinese horoscope: Pig people are described as models of sincerity, purity, tolerance, and honor. They are careful and caring, obliging, chivalrous and have a real thirst for knowledge and of note have excellent memories; and finally to cap the Year of 1995 off, Toy Story was the #1 grossing movie while Gangsta's Paradise by Coolio, was the best-selling single. So the year of 1995 was indeed a year of spirit and a year of miracles, 104 of whom are sitting here tonight and to whom moving, funny and heartfelt tributes have been paid by their House Coordinators this evening. The class of 2013 you have reached a fundamental milestone in your short lives. Tonight signals the end of your secondary life. This is indeed an auspicious occasion, a rite of passage, one which might be characterized by contradictory feelings such as loss, confusion and sadness on the one hand and sheer jubilation, exultation and unmitigated joy on the other. As you look back down the corridor of your memories, you might remember other milestones such as your first day at school, receiving your school report cards, Gleeson retreats or even receiving your Year 12 jumper the list goes on.

Life is a rich tapestry threaded and stitched together by such events. Many etchings have been loaded into the slide show of your minds lately: your last school mass at St David's Church, your last year level assembly at the DRMC, your last subject lesson or even your last examination in the study hall, and now your last official gathering as the graduating class of 2013.

Some Year 12 cohorts really embed a piece of themselves into your heart. For me this is one such group. A group of truly talented amazing individuals who will succeed no matter the obstacles life throws in front of them. On Year 12 Retreat, the students set themselves the goals of engendering collegial spirit, promoting a sense of belonging and practicing inclusivity as much as possible for their final school year. There is no doubt that they have achieved these goals. I know I have really looked forward to coming to work every day. In an institution of about 700 staff and students, where building works and educational changes have been common features of the backdrop of College life, harmony and tolerance must be valued and aspired to by all. Communal living is challenging and very rewarding. This is manifest in the camaraderie and genuine affection which the Year 12's have for each other and for their College. Furthermore, sharing experiences such as mid year formal, their final Gleeson Day and just being together day to day experiencing the hard grind of Year 12 coursework and assignments- all challenge personal prejudices and limits, they test tolerance and can create lasting bonds.

Remember Year 12's that you are the protagonist in your own architectural narrative. In auspicious rites of passage situations such as this, adults offer wisdom and advice, hoping that some will rub off or stored away for future reference. I too would beg your indulgence and ask you to consider the following sentiments and lessons which I find valuable:

- that this wonderful life is no dress rehearsal, that every moment is precious.
- that you have the capacity to be the architect of your own life; use the tools of love, compassion, humility, respect and trust to shape your journey as the Gleeson 10 lends to you; don't settle for less than your integrity dictates.
- try to be hopeful and optimistic; be courageous and walk this wonderful planet; meet its people in a spirit of open mindedness and genuine curiosity; fear of the unknown breeds prejudice and superiority complexes.
- develop a sense of justice to yourself and to others: choose your battles carefully and be true to yourself.
- admire heroes who will nourish your spirit.

An admired hero of mine and who I shared with previous graduating students is Nelson Mandela, who stated in his inaugural Presidential address:

Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate.

Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure.

It is our light not our darkness that most frightens us.

We ask ourselves who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented and fabulous?

Actually, who are you not to be? We were born to make manifest the glory of the divine that is within us.

It is not just in some of us: it is in everyone.

As we let our own light shine, we unconsciously give others permission to do the same. And as we are liberated from our fear, our Presence automatically liberates others.

Mandela is right. We know he is. Don't lead lives of quiet desperation Year 12's, don't rack up a litany of regrets, live extraordinary lives and be grateful for it. Be that great generation which asserts its imprint gently and unselfishly on the planet.

Year 12's, you have nourished us, challenged us, shocked us, inspired us, humbled us, indeed you have enriched our lives. Now, there are no boundaries or red tape or protocol obstructing your path from College life to adulthood: all official, institutional barriers have been removed. But beware: don't trip! Take good care of yourselves. Those promising auguries have manifest themselves into the 104 magnificent young adults present here tonight, our graduating Class of 2013; the elements are smiling on you. We will never forget the class of 2013. Thanks for the memories and on behalf of Gleeson College Community, I would like to wish you all a very safe and happy holiday period and an extra special Christmas - my prayers go out to you to keep you and your families safe and I wish you all the happiness for your futures and look forward to our continued association as Old Scholars in the years to come.

We congratulate our Class of 2013!

Good Evening and God Bless,
